Mizuki Shigeru Road

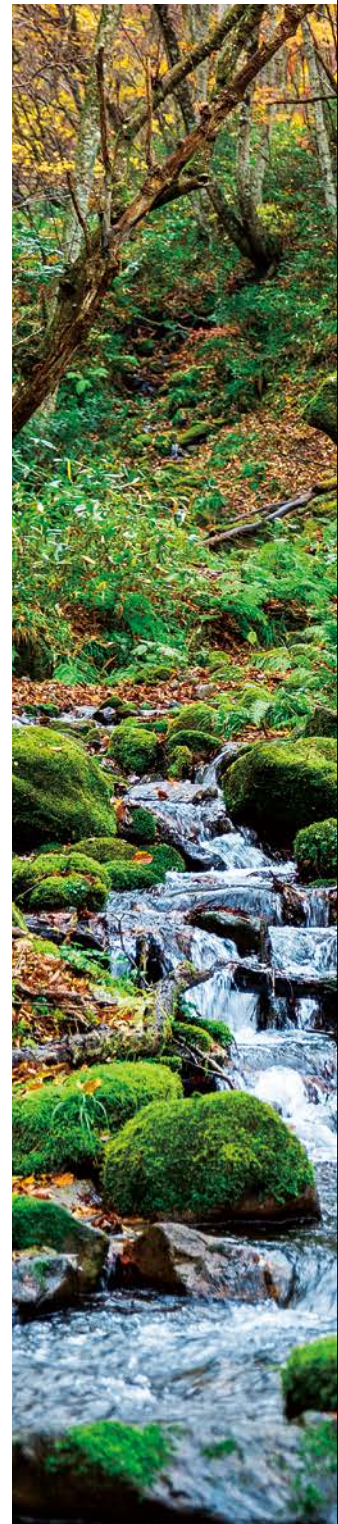

Fantastical creatures from Japanese folklore called Yokai will delight children and adults alike at this popular site dedicated to the famous manga artist Mizuki Shigeru. A road stretching around 800 meters from JR Sakaiminato Station into the city proper, it features 177 bronze statues of Mizuki's characters. At nightfall, light bathes the statues and creates Yokai silhouettes which make for an otherworldly stroll.

Tottori Hanakairo Flower Park

Sprawling hills and valleys blanketed with flowers bloom in every season at one of Japan's largest flower parks. The main draw is the year-round exhibit of lilies showcasing 15 varieties — the largest collection of its kind in Japan. Another sublime spectacle is the 14,000 flowers across 80,000 square meters set elegantly aglow in the Moonlight Flower Garden.

A Once-in-a-lifetime TOTTORI ADVENTURE

Sweeping vistas of nature in all its glory, treasures of historical and cultural significance, and unforgettable delicacies found only here; a sense of fascination overwhelmed us from the very start of our visit to Tottori. Over the course of just a few days, we came face-to-face with a Japan we had scarcely even imagined existed — a whole new Japan that captured our hearts...

3:00 p.m.

Mt. Daisen [Kitanizawa Mountain Stream]

In the heart of the deep forests of Oku-Daisen lies this site of natural splendor, home to pristine mountain springs and old-growth Japanese beeches. Walk the secluded mountain path and open your ears to the gentle murmur of the brook and the singing of the songbirds, and allow yourself to be transported to another time and place. A sacred site that is beautiful in all four seasons, it's sure to revitalize both mind and body and wash the stresses of modern life away. For those looking to explore the area to the fullest, guided tours including birdwatching in spring and snowshoeing in winter are available.

DAY 1

The Journey Begins

Our first stop brought us to the Mizuki Shigeru Road and into a world of supernatural creatures as depicted by one of Japan's most celebrated manga artists. Next, we strolled through a rainbow of blossoms in the expansive Hanakairo Flower Park. From a hillside blanketed in scarlet blooms, we gazed up at our next destination: the snow-kissed summit of Mt. Daisen pierced through a layer of clouds. Hiking through deep forests painted in fiery red and brilliant golden hues, we discovered the beautiful Kitanizawa Mountain Stream. The murmuring of its pristine waters seemed as if an invitation for us to return and rediscover today's magic in all four seasons.

Kurayoshi's Shirakabe Storehouses [White Wall District]

Designated as an Important Preservation District for Groups of Historic Buildings, Kurayoshi's White Wall District faithfully retains the ambience of its origins in the Edo and Meiji periods. Stone bridges and red tile roofs contrast beautifully with the white mortar of the storehouses to create an elegant townscape seldom seen today. Formerly used as breweries and soy sauce breweries, the buildings here are now home to a variety of local goods shops, teahouses and cafes, galleries, and more.

2:00 p.m.

Mitokusan Sanbutsuji Temple

Temples of the Sanbutsuji compound stud the steep rocky slopes of Mt. Mitoku. Climb the mountain path that has long served as a training site for mountain ascetics and surround yourself with the splendor of nature as you cleanse your impurities and sins. At the end of this pilgrimage awaits the Nageire Hall, clinging as if by spiritual power to the side of a sheer precipice, where it has stood for over a thousand years.

DAY 2

To Another World and Back Again

Our second day began in Conan Town (the town of Hokuei) where we found a treasure trove of original artwork and interactive exhibits featuring characters from the beloved Detective Conan series in the Goshō Aoyama Manga Factory. Next, a stroll through the traditional streetscape of Kurayoshi’s carefully preserved White Wall Storehouses District had us feeling as if we’d been transported back to Japan’s olden days. After lunch, we donned pilgrim’s sashes and braved the treacherous paths of Mt. Mitoku in a climb through primeval forests, up nearly vertical slopes, and passed sacred sites that culminated in breathtaking vistas of the valley below and an up-close look at a thousand-year-old feat of architectural magic.

Tottori Nijisseiki Pear Museum

Learn all about pears, which are Tottori's local specialty product, through interactive exhibits and informative displays. A massive pear tree with branches fanning out some 20 meters stands in the main hall as a symbol of the museum and a testament to local growing expertise. Visitors can enjoy tasting three varieties of Tottori's pears year-round, treat themselves to pear soft-serve ice cream, and purchase something for the road.

4:30 p.m.

Tottori Sand Dunes

The Tottori Sand Dunes are the most renowned destination in the prefecture. Measuring over forty meters from trough to crest, these coastal dunes stretch over such an expanse as to create the illusion of being transported to a vast desert. Winds blowing in from the Sea of Japan imprint unique markings atop the sands. Visitors are welcome to try a wide variety of activities including hiking, paragliding, camel rides, and fat-tire bike tours.

1:00 p.m.

Uradome Coast

[San'in Kaigan Geopark]

The Sea of Japan toiled through the millennia to sculpt the stark rocky outcrops, tall cliff arches, and deep caves that adorn the Uradome Coast. Furthermore, the tireless working of the waves over the years has created beaches of the softest white sand making it an ideal destination for a summer trip to the seaside.

DAY 3

Singularly Sweet Delights for the Tastebuds and Eyes Alike

Our third day began at the Nijisseiki Pear Museum where, in the span of an hour, we learned more about Tottori's emblematic product than we ever dreamed possible. Most memorable was the pear tasting exhibit where the friendly staff encouraged us to try three varieties of locally grown pears to find our favorite — a surprisingly difficult task! Next, while traversing the Uradome Coast, we chanced upon a walkway that took us to a cove tucked between sheer sea cliffs and stood on a white beach just watching the waves crash upon mighty rocks adorned with black pine trees. The day's activities culminated in a climb up a hill of sand at the Tottori Sand Dunes. Out of breath, we sat on its peak and watched in awe as the sun set somewhere across the Sea of Japan.

10:00 a.m. The Ishitani Residence

The Ishitani Residence was the largest building in the thriving post town of Chizu during the Edo period (1603-1868). Laid out to encircle a spacious courtyard garden, the mansion comprises 40 rooms and seven earthen-walled storehouses. Renovated in the early 20th century, the surpassing craftsmanship of the structure with its sliding doors, transoms, paintings, and other decorations has earned it a place in Japan's list of Important Cultural Properties as an exemplary piece of extant traditional architecture.

DAY 4

Bounties of Nature to Sate the Stomach and Soothe the Soul

Our final day began at the Ishitani Residence. Once the mansion of a prominent family, it now stands as a striking example of traditional Japanese architectural techniques. Sitting on the veranda and admiring the vast traditional garden, we felt an indescribable sense of peace. Then it was on to lunch at Mitaki-en, a restaurant in complete harmony with the surrounding forest. The babbling of brooks and singing of birds amplified the flavor of seasonal dishes prepared with ingredients harvested from the forest. The last stop on our itinerary was Cocogarden at Oenosato Resort where we enjoyed decadently sweet and fluffy pancakes made with eggs from the on-site farm.

SPRING

Cherry Blossoms

Spring is one of Japan's most stunning seasons, and it's especially lovely in Tottori with all of the exquisite parks and gardens where you can admire beautiful cherry blossoms in all their glory. Home to nearly 4,000 cherry trees, Utsubuki Park in Kurayoshi is a prime destination for hanami. Located at the foot of a mountain, this forest park bursts to life with color when the trees bloom all around a peaceful pond and charming red bridge. At nightfall, traditional lanterns light up creating an ethereal scene sure to leave you breathless. At the Tottori Castle Ruins, the historical Jinpukaku, a two-story white mansion that stands as symbol of Meiji era modernization, provides a marvelous backdrop for admiring cherry blossoms.

ALL SEASONS

Spring, summer, fall, or winter — the wonders of nature are yours to enjoy in Tottori.

AUTUMN

Stunning Fall Foliage

The transformation of verdant mountain forests into a tapestry of red, orange, and gold heralds the return of Tottori's intensely beautiful autumn. The hiking trails of Oshika Gorge offer breathtaking views year-round but are particularly striking when flame-kissed leaves surround its rushing waterfalls and extraordinary rock formations. Another ideal spot to enjoy the fall is Daisenji Temple, a 1000-year-old Buddhist complex sheltered in the forest on the sacred Mt. Daisen. Take in the brilliant colors in a setting of historical architecture, mighty gates, stone paths, riverbeds, and more. At night, the temple compound is vividly illuminated in blazing-hot fiery hues giving this site of autumnal grandeur an air of sacred tranquility.

Sekigane Hot Springs

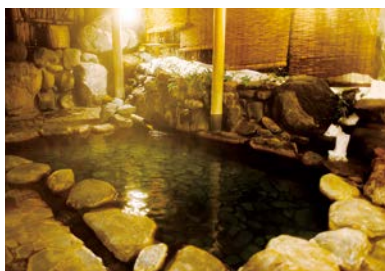

Situated at the foot of Mt. Daisen, Sekigane Hot Springs is one of the few springs in the world with a high level of radium which helps to soothe and alleviate ailments such as rheumatism, nerve pain, gout, high blood pressure, and arteriosclerosis. Despite the high mineral content, the water of the springs is so clear and odorless that it is widely referred to as "platinum water". This is an ideal destination for overnight and daytrip stays alike.

Iwai Hot Springs

The Iwai hot spring, with over 1,200 years of history, is the oldest in the Sanin region. The traditional wooden buildings that have stood unchanged for so long serve as elegant reminders of the halcyon days of old. Feel a connection to this history by participating in a cultural tradition passed down from the Edo period (1603-1868) of using a wooden ladle to pour hot water over your head while singing a unique folk song in the springs.

Shikano Hot Springs

Located in a tranquil castle town surrounded by mountains, these hot springs are named after the famous samurai Yamanaka Shikanosuke of Japan's medieval Sengoku period (1467-1600). The water of Shikano Hot Springs is known as "women's water" for its calming effect on skin conditions. Stop by the Hot Pier Kano or Sanshien parking lot to enjoy a free hot spring for your feet after a long day of sightseeing.

Togo Hot Springs

The view from the Togo Hot Springs located on the southeastern shore of Lake Togo ranks amongst San'in's Top Eight Scenic Spots. These hot springs are known as the “water of love” for their power to bless bathers with an easy childbirth. Delight in elegant cherry trees in the spring, vibrant fireworks in the summer, gorgeous autumn foliage in the fall, and succulent Matsuba crab in the winter.

Yoshioka Hot Springs

Boasting a history of over 1,000 years, the Yoshioka Hot Springs were first discovered in 962 by the man whose name they bear. He marveled at how the waters miraculously cured his daughter's skin condition and restored her former beauty. In the Edo period, lords of the Ikeda clan frequented the spring, and it still remains popular with men and women looking to rejuvenate their skin. Don't miss the Flower Festival in April and Firefly Festival in June!

Hamamura Hot Springs

The Hamamura Hot Springs are famous for their wealth of thermal water and 500-year-long history. According to a local legend, a wounded egret fully healed after a soak in the springs which gave them their nickname of the Egret Springs. Bathers enjoy a view of quiet white sand beaches while relaxing in the rejuvenating water of these springs on the shore of the Sea of Japan.

Tottori. At first, even the name was unfamiliar to me.

Little did I know that what awaited me was the adventure of a lifetime full of sights, tastes, moments, and memories that I would treasure forever...
